YE LIBERTY THEATER

That very novel and highly interesting entertainment, "A Top of the World in Motion," will begin at the Ye Liberty theater Saturday night, November 29, and continuing for six nights.

Since "feature films," providing a full evening's entertainment, were first shown in San Francisco it is safe to say that none has afforded such keen enjoyment and has been of such universal appeal as "A Top of the World."

The spectator, comfortably seated in an opera chair, is given a two-hour-and-a-half trip to and through Alaska and Siberia without any of the discomforts, especially of cold, attendant upon such an expedition, and there is not a moment during the entire time that something worth seeing is not unfolded. The various kinds of mining practiced in and around Nome are fully exemplified, a $50,000 clean-up being one of the alluring scenes depicted, while hydraulic operations are clearly shown. The dog teams carrying Uncle Sam's mail through the frozen fastnesses of the far north are of peculiar interest and the home life of the ingenious Esquimaux is faithfully portrayed. One of the most entrancing pictures ever captured by the "movie" camera is that of the "midnight sun," with its wonderful color effect. Those in search of the excitement will find complete gratification in the thrilling polar bear and walrus hunts, while there is plenty of fun in the dances and boating exhibitions of the native Esquimaux.

The flag of the former kingdom of Hawaii, which has since been made territorial, will fly over the Kaplan building, King and Alakea streets, today in commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the signing of a treaty between France and Great Britain which set forth that neither of these powers would undertake to annex the Hawaiian Islands. It is understood that no other attempt will be made to celebrate the anniversary.

Police Notes

G. M. Yamada, a contractor, charged with having obstructed a portion of Mauna Kea street near King with piles of rock and sand, was ordered by the police to get a permit from the city and county authorities without delay, or take the consequences in the lower court.

Declared to have been under the influence of liquor, Manuel Raposa, is reported by the police as having jumped from a moving electric car, number 52 as it was proceeding along King near Liliha street. Raposa suffered a cut on the chin and several bruises about the head. He was taken to the hospital for treatment.

"Go and sin no more," advised District Magistrate Larnach, in passing upon several offenders, who were brought before the police tribunal this morning charged with having unduly celebrated a day of national thanksgiving by intemperate use of mixed liquors. The charge of drunkenness in the case of several defendants were dismissed.

Ogata, a Japanese, has entered complaint against City and County Physician James T. Wayson, it being alleged that the officer ran down Ogata, who was riding along King near Liliha streets on a bicycle. Both parties claim to have followed the ordinary rules of the road by keeping to the right. Dr. Wayson stated that the Japanese attempted to cross the path of his automobile and in doing so was thrown from the bike. The machine was damaged but the rider escaped with a few bruises.

Riot and revelry reigned for some moments on the decks of the French bark Bretagne yesterday while Honolulu duly celebrated a peaceful Thanksgiving. The voice of protest was lifted over the prospect of a day of toll aboard the craft, in which several sailors participated. Captain Lelaire decided that police interference was needed to quell the incipient rebellion. J. Calas was taken to the station for investigation.

"In my opinion a vagrant is one who borrows money from strangers and not from among his friends," remarked Pat Radigan, when asked by Judge Larnach this morning to give his reasons for now being prosecuted under the vagrancy act. Radigan claimed to have been a sailor who left his ship three weeks ago with $100, which sum was speedily dissipated, and he was left penniless. "You won't see me for dust if you let me go this time, your honor," promised Radigan. The man claimed that he could get passage in a steamer leaving here within a week, and the court decided to offer no serious obstacle to Radigan making a successful "get away."

NO EFFORT IS MADE TO RETURN MEDEIROS

Joseph J. Medeiros, indicted for embezzlement by the territorial grand jury on Wednesday afternoon, has probably made good his escape from the territory. It is accepted as fact now that he departed Tuesday evening on the Lurline for San Francisco, traveling under an assumed name, and it is quite generally conceded that neither state nor federal officials will detain him on his arrival at the coast city.

Though he has left a wife and nine children in destitute circumstances and if returned could be made to face a charge of wife desertion as well as embezzlement, no application had been made to Attorney General Thayer up to noon today for extradition papers, and this makes it certain the next boat from this point to the mainland, the Ventura, will not carry the documents which might, with Mott-Smith's signature, cause the man's return to Honolulu.

Whether either Mott-Smith, at Los Angeles or Governor Frear, at Washington, D. C., now possesses the authority to sign extradition papers is a mooted question. U. S. District Attorney Breckons made it clear today that the federal authorities cannot act in the matter. He says the fact that Medeiros left here under an assumed name and is a naturalized citizen does not affect his status with the federal government. His naturalization papers will not be called for and he will not be questioned by the immigration officials, for he has as much right to go to the mainland from Hawaii as does an Englishman, German, Swede or member of any other branch of the white race. It is only the Oriental whose right to land there is questioned.

There is just one thing which, if evidence were produced, would enable the federal officials to step in and take a hand. That would be a violation of the Edmunds Act; if it could be shown the man would be brought back without further ado, but Breckons says that from what he has been told by Attorney James Coke, Medeiros' counsel, no evidence of this kind can be found.

Following impressive funeral ceremonies at which Rev. H. H. Parker of Kawaiahae church officiated, the remains of Capt. Andrew Rosehill were cremated at the Nuuanu cemetery at 10:30 o'clock this morning. According to his wishes, Captain Rosehill's ashes will be scattered to the winds on the high seas. Many friends and relatives of the captain, including Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kahohuoluna of Waiuku, Maui, son-in-law and daughter of the deceased who arrived in Honolulu yesterday, were present at the services.

CATHOLIC FAIR
BOOTHS GOING UP RAPIDLY

The booths for the Catholic Fair, in the form of commodious tents of white and brown canvas, are being erected in Bishop Park, opposite the Young Hotel, today, and by this evening the site should present a very attractive appearance, for it is expected that the work will be completed at that time. The fair is under the general direction of Mrs. Charles Lucas, and the proceeds are to be devoted to the completion of the new Catholic church now being erected on Wilder avenue near Punahou street, and of which Rev. Father Stephen will be pastor. The fair will commence at noon tomorrow and come to a close late in the evening.

The big tent in the center of the park will be turned into a theater, it was announced this morning, where a number of vaudeville acts will be presented "for the first time in this city." The theater promises to be one of the features of the fair and both amateur and professional talent has been called in to assist in making it a success. The first performance will commence at 7:15 o'clock, and an admission of 25 cents will be charged. Besides the many things on sale, there will be on exhibition a valuable sideboard, made of a variety of native woods and once the property of Hawaiian royalty, which has been given over for disposal to those in charge of the fair. It is expected that the sideboard will be raffled, the person holding the lucky number winning it. It was presented to the committee in charge by Mrs. John Lucas, in whose family it has been for a number of years. There will be plenty of music also, for the Hawaiian Band and the Catholic Mission band will alternate during the afternoon and evening.

CABARET BIG SUCCESS AT YOUNG RATHSKELLER

The cabaret has at last arrived in Honolulu. This type of cafe entertainment, which has been so popular at San Francisco and other mainland cities the last two or three years, was introduced as a Thanksgiving specialty by Manager Heydenrich and made a special feature of the dinner at the Alexander Young rathskeller last evening.

Dolly Harris, a bewitching, black-eyed little damsel recently from the Orpheum circuit, with a contralto voice of pleasing quality and the winning graces of a high-class cafe entertainer, presented the novelty. She leaped into instant popularity with the patrons, who showed their enthusiasm with endless encores, and the feature gives promise of making the Rathskeller dinners one of the town's leading evening diversions.

Mrs. George Schrader gave several piano solos and Kaal's orchestra filled in, making the entertainment a highly enjoyable one.

Miss Harris is to appear regularly hereafter at the Rathskeller three or four times each week.
